

LSA: Summer Institute 2025

Both Terms
Hybrid
Online
LSA UO Campus map

Term 1, Monday and Thursday

| Time          | STB 145                                                                                                                | STB 245                                                                                                | STB 253                                                              | STB 254                                                                  | GER 242/STB 151                                                                                   | GER 248                                                                                         |
|---------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 09:00 – 10:20 | Linguistic Typology in Evolutionary PerspectiveBalthasar Bickel(Sapir Professor)                                        | Child Language AcquisitionZara Harmon, Caroline Rowland                                                     | Introduction to PragmaticsLucien Brown                                    | Historical SociolinguisticsCarolina P. Amador-Moreno, Mark Richard Lauersdorf | Grammatical VoiceSeppo Kittilä, Fernando ZúñigaRoom: GER 242                                       |                                                                                                                 |
| 10:30 – 11:50 | Origins and Evolution of LanguageKenny Smith                                                                                | Statistical Measures in Corpus Linguistics: Frequency, Dispersion, Association, and KeynessStefan Th. Gries | Introduction to Language DocumentationMarianne Mithun(Hale Professor) | Eye Tracking in Psycholinguistic ResearchZenzi M. Griffin                     | Computational Models of Generalization and Item-SpecificityMasoud Jasbi, Emily MorganRoom: GER 242 | Construction and the Grammar of ContextElaine J. Francis, Laura A. Michaelis(Fillmore Professor) |
| 01:00 – 02:20 | Iconicity in LanguageBodo Winter                                                                                            | Foundations of Predictive Modeling with RStefan Th. Gries                                                   | Distributional Semantics for Linguistic ResearchFlorent Perek             | Modeling Linguistic NetworksRory Turnbull                                     |                                                                                                                   | Computational Methods for Phonology and MorphologyColin Wilson                                       |
| 02:30 – 03:50 | Phonetic FieldworkChristian DiCanio                                                                                         | Language in Intelligent MachinesIdan A. Blank                                                               | Dynamic Language Updating and UseMalathi Thothathiri                      | Information Theory Tools for Language ResearchFermín Moscoso del Prado Martín | Language Production in the Lab and in the WildLaurel BrehmRoom: STB 151                            |                                                                                                                 |
| 04:00 – 05:20 | Reconciling Representational and Usage-Based Grammars: Toward an Integrative Cognitive Neuroscience of LanguageAlec Marantz | The Relationship Between Language and ThoughtIdan A. Blank                                                  | Introduction to Generative SyntaxSuzana Fong                              | Information-Theoretic LinguisticsRichard Futrell                              | Corpus Linguistics for Field LinguistsDanielle BarthRoom: STB 151                                  |                                                                                                                 |

Term 1, Tuesday and Friday

| Time          | STB 145                                                          | STB 245                                                                            | STB 253                                                              | STB 254                                                            | GER 242/STB 151                                                                            | GER 248                                                                |
|---------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 09:00 – 10:20 | Advanced Syntactic TypologyJesus Olguin Martinez, Phillip G. Rogers   | Variationist Sociolinguistics: Testing Hypotheses about Language ChangeCatherine Travis | Grammar WritingLinda Konnerth                                             | Diachronic Construction GrammarElena Smirnova                           | The Linguistics of Sign LanguagesRyan Lopic, Corrine OcchinoRoom: GER 242                   | Linguistic Diversity in Language AcquisitionSabine Stoll                    |
| 10:30 – 11:50 | Dynamics of Speech ProductionJason A. Shaw, Michael C. Stern          | Linguistic Variation and Social NetworksRobin Dodsworth                                 | Introduction to Language DocumentationMarianne Mithun(Hale Professor) | Reconstructing SyntaxJóhanna Barðdal, Spike Gildea                      | Linguistic Variation during Human-Computer InteractionGeorgia ZellouRoom: GER 242           |                                                                                        |
| 01:00 – 02:20 | Adaptive speech perception and comprehensionChigusa Kurumada, Xin Xie | Usage-Based Second Language AcquisitionNick C. Ellis                                    | Grammatical Description for Language DocumentationThomas E. Payne         | Information Structure in Interaction, Grammar, and TypologyPavel Ozerov | Introduction to Quantitative Morphology: Questions, Methods, ModelsAndrea SimsRoom: GER 242 | Miniature Language Studies and the Cognitive Science of LanguageSara Finley |
| 02:30 – 03:50 | A Constructionist Approach to GrammarAdele E. Goldberg                | Practical Corpus PhoneticsMichael McAuliffe, Morgan Sonderegger                         | Evolutionary Lexical Functional GrammarSteve Wechsler                     | The Trans-Himalayan/Sino-Tibetan LanguagesScott DeLancey                | Language Phylogenies: Modelling the Evolution of LanguageSimon J. Greenhill                     |                                                                                        |

|                                    |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |                                                                                      |                                                                                          |                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                              |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                    |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |                                                                                      |                                                                                          | Room: GER 242                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                              |
| 04:00 – 05:20                      | Word Up! A Focus on the African American LexiconTracey Weldon(American Dialect Society Professor) | Bayesian regression modeling for language data: A crash courseMorgan Sonderegger                  | Implicit Associative Learning and LanguageArnaud Rey                      | Sociolinguistic PerceptionCharlotte Vaughn, Abby Walker                       | Lexicalized Accumulation of Patterns of UseEsther L. BrownRoom: STB 151                            | Typology, Contact, and Convergence: The Southern Region of the PNW SprachbundJordan Douglas-Tavani, Shahar Shirtz |
| Term 2, Monday and Thursday |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |                                                                                      |                                                                                          |                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                              |
| Time                        | STB 145                                                                                            | STB 245                                                                                        | STB 253                                                                | STB 254                                                                    | GER 242/STB 151                                                                                     | GER 248                                                                                                        |
| 09:00 – 10:20                      | Language Contact in Language Shift EcologiesRosa Vallejos-Yopán                                       | Child Language AcquisitionZara Harmon, Caroline Rowland,                                          | Papuan LanguagesDon Daniels                                               | Historical SociolinguisticsCarolina P. Amador-Moreno, Mark Richard Lauersdorf | Grammatical VoiceSeppo Kittilä, Fernando ZúñigaRoom: GER 242                                       | The Discriminative Lexicon Theory, Implementation in the Julia Package JudiLing, and ApplicationsHarald Baayen    |
| 10:30 – 11:50                      | Neurolinguistic MethodsRachel Elizabeth Weissler                                                      | Deep Language Learning: Modeling Language from Raw Speech with fiwGANGasper Begus, Stephan Meylan | Introduction to Language DocumentationMarianne Mithun(Hale Professor) | Eye Tracking in Psycholinguistic ResearchZenzi M. Griffin                     | Computational Models of Generalization and Item-SpecificityMasoud Jasbi, Emily MorganRoom: GER 242 | Computational Construction GrammarJonathan Dunn                                                                   |
| 01:00 – 02:20                      | Iconicity in LanguageBodo Winter                                                                      | Tongue Movements and PhonologyJeff Mielke                                                         | Acquisition of VariationNaomi Shin                                        | Modeling Linguistic NetworksRory Turnbull                                     | Words and the nature of artificial and human intelligenceJanet B. PierrehumbertRoom: GER 242       |                                                                                                                              |
| 02:30 – 03:50                      | Speech Accommodation, Convergence, and ImitationCynthia Clopper                                       | Lexical Typology and Universals of Word MeaningThanasis Georgakopoulos, Maria Koptjevskaja Tamm   | ErgativitiesRoberto Zariquiey                                             | Information Theory Tools for Language ResearchFermín Moscoso del Prado Martín |                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                              |
| 04:00 – 05:20                      | Language Production and its (Psycho)linguistic ConsequencesMaryellen C. MacDonald                     |                                                                                                              | Introduction to Generative SyntaxSuzana Fong                              | Information-Theoretic LinguisticsRichard Futrell                              |                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                              |
| Term 2, Tuesday and Friday  |                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |                                                                                      |                                                                                          |                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                              |
| Time                        | STB 145                                                                                            | STB 245                                                                                        | STB 253                                                                | STB 254                                                                    | GER 242/STB 151                                                                                     | GER 248                                                                                                        |
| 09:00 – 10:20                      | Advanced Syntactic TypologyJesus Olguin Martinez, Phillip G. Rogers                                   | Communicative Efficiency in Human LanguagesNatalia Levshina                                       | Grammar WritingLinda Konnerth                                             | Exceptionality and ProductivityGaja Jarosz                                    | The Linguistics of Sign LanguagesRyan Lepic, Corrine OcchinoRoom: GER 242                          |                                                                                                                              |
| 10:30 – 11:50                      | Dynamics of Speech ProductionJason A. Shaw, Michael C. Stern                                          | The Message Shapes PhonologyKathleen Currie Hall, Andrew Wedel                                    | Introduction to Language DocumentationMarianne Mithun(Hale Professor) | Linguistics and Reading ReformMark Seidenberg                                 |                                                                                                                   | Morphology in InteractionMirjam Ernestus                                                                          |
| 01:00 – 02:20                      | Computational Semantic TypologyTerry Regier                                                           | Writing Systems and their UseDimitrios Meletis                                                    | Grammatical Description for Language DocumentationThomas E. Payne         | Information Structure in Interaction, Grammar, and TypologyPavel Ozerov       | Phonology and the LexiconCanaan BreissRoom: GER 242                                                |                                                                                                                              |
| 02:30 – 03:50                      | Language Typology and Grammatical Evolution:                                                              | Cognitive Mechanisms of Language Change                                                               | Evolutionary Lexical Functional Grammar                                       | The Trans-Himalayan/Sino-Tibetan                                                  | Prosodic Development Across Languages                                                                      |                                                                                                                              |

|                      |                                                                                                            |                                                      |                                                                                                                       |                                                                    |                            |  |
|----------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------|--|
|                      | Explaining Language Universals in Diachronic PerspectiveSonia Cristofaro(Collitz Professor) | Vsevolod Kapatsinski                                 | Steve Wechsler                                                                                                        | LanguagesScott DeLancey                                 | Aoju ChenRoom: GER 242 |  |
| 04:00 – 05:20 | Theories of Sound Change from Neogrammarians to TodayMarc Pierce                                | Non-human Primates and LanguageArnaud Rey | Interaction: A Journey from the Fringes to the Core of Linguistic ScienceHenrik Bergqvist, Karolina Grzech | Sociolinguistic PerceptionCharlotte Vaughn, Abby Walker |                            |  |

LSA UO Campus map